February 2015

Next Meeting

Date: Sat., February 14, 2015
Time: 1:30 Informal “talk story”
2:00 Meeting starts
Place: Kamana Senior Center,
127 Kamana St., Hilo
Speaker: John Jusczak
Topic: Antelope Dendrobiums

Most people in Hawaii grow Dendrobiums. Hybrids with the familiar Phalaenopsis-shape flowers in pink, purple and white can be purchased everywhere. But the genus is huge (1200 species), and there are many lesser-known varieties that are worth growing.

This month, John Jusczak will talk to us about a group of Dendrobiums that every grower should try: the section Spatulatum, or “antelope” Dendrobiums, so-called because of their twisted petals that look like miniature antelope horns (see photo). The plants are floriferous, the flowers are long-lasting, and they grow well in our climate.

John Jusczak is well known to HOS members, being active in the Society and having served on the Board of Trustees. John has been growing orchids for over 30 years. He had a small nursery in New Hampshire called P&J Orchids before moving to Hawaii with his wife Pat. He is currently most interested in Paphs and the Cattleya alliance, but he has dabbled with many genera and has bred and registered a number of hybrids over the years, including naming a new hybrid genus Mendelara. John is currently a student judge in the AOS judging program.

If you’d like to learn more about these uncommon but uncommonly nice Dendrobiums, be sure not to miss this meeting!

Lisa Steinmeyer

Lisa Steinmeyer was born and raised in Tulsa, Oklahoma and attended Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, Oklahoma, obtaining an Associate's Degree in Business. She started her career working for attorneys but quickly found she needed to earn more money, so she went to school to become a licensed court reporter. She was a court reporter for 32 years in Tulsa, owning her own business, Tulsa Freelance Reporters. At her 30-year high school class reunion, she ran into an old friend, Mark Hughes and started dating. They then made a decision to sell everything and move to Hawaii. They bought a house in 2011 in Onomea Bay Vistas. They planned to get married at the end of September but due to a serious accident Lisa was in, they ended up getting married earlier, while she was in a wheelchair, at an inkjet cartridge refill store on Kinoole!

Most people recognize Mark wherever he goes as he works in the paint department at Home Depot. They spend their free time taking care of their five acre property. They especially love to spend time in Hawaii Volcanoes National Park hiking. Mark and Lisa are both rabid football fans, both college and NFL. Mark's dad played for the Pittsburgh Steelers, so the Steelers are one of their favorites. They love to play Maj Jong, practice Zentangle, do yoga, walk and play with their orchids. They both have enjoyed being involved in the Hilo Orchid Society and have met many good friends through the Society.
